San Giorgio Maggiore is a beautiful church of cruciform structure, which is erected on a small island opposite the Piazzetta, from which it is separated by the Canale di S. Marco. The building, which is surmounted by a dome, was begun by Palladio in 1560, and the façade was added by Scamozzi in 1602-10. The interior contains some beautiful paintings and carvings. The campanile commands one of the finest views obtainable of the city and lagoons.
